

Mould growth

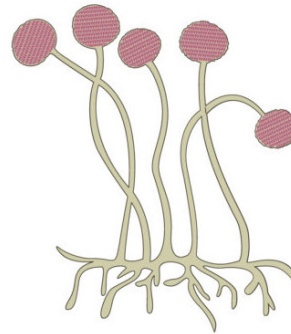

SPORES

A spore grows into a new single cell and reproduces.

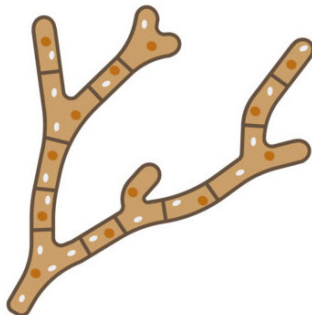

GERMINATION

Moist, warm environments with nutrients activate spores to germinate or grow germ tubes.

HYPHA

The round end of the germ tube absorbs nutrients from the source and branches out to form new hypha tips.

MATURE

Spore formations grow new spores at the tip, which get released into the air.

Life cycle